COD Staff Member Receives Prestigious Russell L. DeSouza Award

Mike Zuranski, COD meteorology support analyst, recently received the award for his dedication to Unidata, a diverse program of more than 160 institutions vested in the common goal of better serving the geosciences. In addition, Zuranski, who is also a COD alumnus, was recognized for his ongoing involvement in developing, maintaining and improving COD's NEXLAB website, which has become a reliable weather resource for thousands of daily users, including the U.S. Navy and university meteorology programs across the nation. You can check it out, and follow the weather, at weather.cod.edu.

Donate Today and Your Contribution Will Be Doubled

The College of DuPage Foundation Board of Directors has taken action to support student success by providing a one-time allocation of its investments of up to $250,000 in matching gift funds in support of the Student Emergency Fund and the COD Succeeds Scholarship Fund. Donate to either of these funds at foundation.cod.edu/donate and your impact will be doubled!

Going Places

Travel can change lives. Have you gone somewhere that has left an impact on you? Last fall, the Field and Experiential Studies team started a new series called "Going Places," featuring students and employees who share brief stories about a place that has had an impact on them. Check them all out by visiting <https://bit.ly/3rKIjoY>.
